2022 Retirees

Thank you and congratulations to each of our 2022 retirees. We owe you endless gratitude for all that you have contributed to our school and community. On behalf of the BHS student body, thank you for helping to make these some of the best years of our lives and for sticking with us through the unimaginable. You will all be missed.

Class History

Taylor Alderson

We aren't obligated to our friends the way that we are to our family. Many times, friends will leave, or you will grow apart, but family is something that you can always come back to. Throughout these past 5 years of high school, I have seen that this senior class is more than friends, we are all family. At times we, as a class, have faced many obstructions within our high school career, but it was our roots that allowed us to hold onto that everlasting connection that not only we saw, but the teachers and the classes to follow.

Our time together started here, when we were in the eighth grade, at the very bottom of the social chain. Fortunately, for some of us, we had connections because of our older siblings and friends, but for others, the transition was very hard. We entered a foreign territory of long hallways and endless staircases that made it a little too easy to get lost. During this time, many of us started sports, some even joined different friend groups, and a few of us were considering switching schools to partake in BVT and other vocational schools. We endured a trip to D.C where we had long bus rides, saw beautiful memorials, and were able to celebrate our class. For close to a week this became our home away from home and we were able to start making memories that would last us forever.

Moving into ninth grade is when our connections to each other started to grow stronger. It was our first true year of high school, and grades started to matter even more than before. People started changing friend groups or just hanging out with someone they wouldn't usually, and what was many different friend groups, started forming into the "class of 2022." Although we started to form into this one group, it's hard to summarize our history, because each one of us was trying to find who we were on our own. Some of us were playing sports, or trying new ones, for some, relationships were forming, and for others, they were just trying to make it possible for them to have a chilled out highschool life. During ninth grade, we didn't do many fun activities that were planned because, as Melissa would say, we were kind of bums, and all of us know that's definitely the truth. Even though we didn't always indulge in those activities, we did stand together during other activities to battle the other classes. At the pep rally, we weren't afraid to cheer our heads off during tug-of-war, or the hungry-hungry hippos game. When it came time for spirit week, although we were a small class, most of us dressed up and faced the older and younger kids to see who had more spirit; which never really worked out for us as our class was typically called for last place at the end of each day. Even though we weren't deemed winners, it was events such as these that made it possible for us to connect with one another and start to form the family that we are today.

By the time we entered tenth grade, we had seen some of our closest friends and older siblings go, and for some of us, younger siblings and friends come. As sophomores, we got to endure the normal activities, such as spirit week, pep rally, homecoming, etc. We all felt like we were on the right track for a successful year and a successful back half of high school. But then, news channels and other forms of media started informing us of a terrible sickness that, at the time, would soon change everyone's life. Slowly, schools started closing, and 2 day weekends turned into 3 months of "corona-cation," more commonly known as quarantine. These times were so hard for some, and if not all, most of us. We weren't able to see our friends or family, and we were barely able to leave our houses. Many of us didn't know what was going to happen, and most of us knew we would lose a whole chunk of our "normal teenage lives." The majority of us spent time on facetime with each other to feed the desired need for human interaction. And soon, homework didn't exist, but endless hours on minecraft, fortnite, and other video games did. What was around going to bed at 10:00 and waking up for school by 6:30, turned into going to bed at 2:00 (or not at all) and waking up at 12:00. Some parents were super strict, and even started washing their groceries in their garage before bringing them inside, while others weren't. And occasionally, you would see someone escape their own house to actually hang out with their closest friends.

During the transition to our junior year, we can all say that it was very different. We went back and forth to school in cohorts, and didn't get to see a lot of our friends. To try and reduce the various different interactions with people, we had long blocks and no more waterfall schedules. The hour and a half blocks made it so we could only have 4 blocks a day, and the constant switching back and forth made it extremely difficult for some to be in school. I, along with others, can confidently say that these were the moments that definitely made it hard for some to have the strength to continue being a good student. The A's and B's we had turned into C's, and the positive energy that we once had, seemed as if it was slipping away. Although these times were extremely difficult, it was those simple moments of checking in on one another that really pushed us through. The strength that we gave each other then is what connected us to be where we are now as we soon approach graduation.

By the time we became seniors, there were still many difficulties that we had to overcome. Besides being bombarded with questions like "what does your future look like," or "have you chosen a college yet," we still faced the after effects of COVID. At the beginning of this year, we still wore masks and had to try our best to maintain distance. For some, it was extremely hard, and others found it very... let's say annoying. There were many times that we had to remind ourselves and the others around us that it was going to be okay and that we can get through this together. And in the end, we were right. Soon enough, masks weren't required, and we could finally be close to one another. We were finally back on track for some sort of normalcy. We all got to go to Disney World and enjoy a time in the sunshine state together, where we hopped from park to park and enjoyed thrilling rides. By the middle of May we experienced a normal prom, one that wasn't held at a zoo with the ostrich everyone posed with last year. Our trip to high meadows was thrilling, and we got to enjoy watching Reed, Brendan, and Sarnie cannonball off the diving board. And now, towards the very end, and within the last few days, we got to experience tear-filled walks through the elementary schools, and middle school. All of us know, and knew, that sooner or later we will have to say goodbye. So that leads us here, to where we are now, at our Senior Banquet, the night before graduation, spending one last time together as the family that we are.

During these past five years, we have had one another the entire way through. We were there to support one another when someone felt down, and we were there to continue building each other up when one succeeded. This year's senior class has had many excellences that we were all able to experience as one. For example, Connor Henchey, Gavin Elder, Rynne Haynes, and Natalie Krysta were top students, and athletes that were accepted to D1 and D2 schools. Many sports teams had great victories that we hadn't seen here in a long time. The cheer team went from TVL's to regionals, then to states, and finally ending at nationals where they placed 4th. The girls track team broke 7 school records their 2022 outdoor season, and even won their Division 6 Relays. And the football team, during a not so fall season (2021), conquered TVL's.

Now, ending our senior year, we can say that our time here has had extreme obstacles, and difficulties that no one ever should have had to experience. It was our commitment to each other that made those obstructions a little bit easier, and it was the shoulder that not one person, but our whole grade gave one another to lean on. I remember sitting in that auditorium during our eighth grade year, and Mr. Forbes saying to us, "Don't waste your time here because it goes by too quickly." At first, myself, along with all of you definitely did not believe him. I mean he was an adult after all and we were know-it-all teenagers. But now, being an adult and sitting here with all you I can confidently say that I was wrong not to listen. Our time here together ended way faster than we all would've thought, maybe if we had had that year and a half that we lost, just maybe, I'd be saying something different, but even then I think it would have been spent too quickly. Many people say nothing lasts forever, but I think that this class had created something that we all hold onto and look back upon when we have children and grandchildren of our own. Our time together as a family was a gift that should be cherished always, because not every class has the opportunity to experience what the class of 2022 had made together.

Valedictorian Speech

Daniel Kurczy

Good Evening class of 2022!

Today we celebrate the end of the first chapter in our lives. We've all worked hard to get here, even when we really didn't always want to. We've all had our plans messed up by the virus. We've all gone through personal setbacks. We've all had late nights working on assignments. And we did all of it so we could get a fancy piece of paper today. Jokes aside, it's definitely an accomplishment to graduate high school, and we have the right to celebrate it. I'm sure most of us here today would call this ceremony a graduation, but I think a more fitting name would be a commencement; a beginning, or a new start. A lot of places call their graduation ceremonies by that name, and it really makes a lot of sense; today we commence the rest of our lives. With high school done, we can continue our journeys toward our passions. We can work toward our goals in life, the things that make life worth living. Everyone, all of us here, we all have such a dream, or at the very least, an ambition we want to achieve. I'm not going to stand up here and tell you it's important to chase your dreams, because however true that may be, I know I'd personally be bored silly listening to that speech. Instead, I'm going to say some other, equally cheesy things that I hope might be a little more interesting.

You know, tee-shirts at Walmart aren't usually the best places to take life advice. I'd actually put them up there with bumper stickers as some of the worst places to take inspiration from. But one shirt really spoke to me. It had a cute little dog on it, and it said, "The best things in life aren't things." Over the past couple of years, I've really come to see that. As cliché as it is, the best things in life are the people we meet, the relationships we forge, and the experiences we have. Our friends and family constitute our most treasured memories, not our possessions. We love our grandparents more than our phones. We love our friends more than our clothes. It's vital to keep in perspective how important those close to us are. The people sitting near you today are perhaps the biggest influences on who you are as a person. Spending so much time with each other over all of these years has truly made us, US. As we finish off the proceedings today, I'd like all of you to reflect on some of the experiences that you treasure and that shaped who you are. More importantly, I'd also like you all to reflect on a few of the people who touched your lives most significantly. Then, let them know. Life's too short to bottle up our gratitude for others. And with that said, I'd like to end by giving thanks to the people who have helped us along the way, people I'm grateful for. First, to my parents, who've supported me in school for the past twelve years. Your support really has helped me reach my goals. Next, I'd like to thank our coaches and other mentors who have pushed us all to the limits of what we can do. Without you to guide us along our paths, to encourage and challenge us, who knows where we would be? I'd also like to thank our teachers and the custodial staff who always worked together to keep the school running clean and safe. Your care and attention toward us is the reason we're sitting here today. You are the ones who make the school a place of learning. Finally, I'm going to thank you, the class of 2022, for all the memories we've made together. We've all worked hard and made sacrifices in our lives to get here, and it can't be stressed enough how much we all persevered. I can't wait to see what kind of awesome things we will all do, and what different directions our lives will take us.

Thank you!

Salutatorian Speech

Lucy Sullivan

There are a lot of awesome people here today!

We have learned so much from our teachers and the staff here at BHS, and from our families. But, we have also learned much from each other.

Our class is loaded with “unsung heroes,” those who have done so much with few accolades. They often go unrecognized. Today, with the help of our teachers (thanks teachers for answering my email!), I’d like to talk a little about a few of these heroes who have been a part of our day to day high school lives, and what we can learn from them.

Compassion is a very important attribute. Nate Page demonstrates compassion by asking how his teachers and peers are doing. He makes an effort to get to know people and make them feel comfortable. Katie Mateczak brings out the light-hearted, humorous side of people by lifting them up. Mark Imperato demonstrates compassion through many small acts of kindness, like talking to the lonely person in the hallway or rallying support for someone in crisis. We are surrounded by hard workers. Jasmine Syriac is really dedicated to her studies. She is the kind of person to get her homework done three days before it’s due and then study for the rest of the week. Julia Flannery’s notes are color-coded and detailed. She also has spectacular PowerPoints and projects. Kyleigh Gallagher puts her all into every assignment in order to understand the material as a whole rather than just getting her homework done as quickly as possible. Katie Barros puts a lot of effort into group projects and will work for hours on end to stay on top of all her classes.

Speaking out for your beliefs can sometimes be difficult. Amilya Cole speaks out and sticks up for those she cares about and for what she believes in. She quietly pushes those around her to reach their potential. Emily Welch has firm opinions which are well-researched. She is not afraid to speak out on behalf of underrepresented or mistreated people and communities.

We are role models to each other. Logan McWilliams is a fantastic role model, volunteering to do things even when it is inconvenient and difficult. He is quietly willing to help out other people and is an amazing example for younger students, especially in Band. Reed Jean-Louis is kind, quiet, and works hard to help other people. He is currently a sports captain as well and is a role model to younger students. Kelly Lyons is quiet, dedicated, and compassionate.

She often volunteers, especially with children, providing them with a great role model.

A positive outlook on daily life brightens people’s experiences. Hannah Mancuso’s sense of humor lightens up any room and she happily engages with and includes everyone in conversations. Summer McGill is extremely humble and sweet to those around her and has a contagious laugh. Angelina and Camielle Maloney are probably the happiest people in our class. Daily life is exciting for them and they become thrilled about the smallest positive occurrences.

Teamwork is essential in athletics and throughout life. Rylee Chiappone has shown immense dedication to her teams, having received fifteen varsity letters which is more than anyone previously in this high school. Bella Kelly took photos at tons of sporting events this year and brought sports awards night to life with her team videos.

We should all learn to be ourselves. Joe Cavallaro puts himself out there on Hawk News each week to deliver important and interesting information about our school to our whole student body. Landen Davong jumps around the stage, singing his heart out and portraying his bubbly “Landen” energy to his audience.

Creativity is crucial to well-being. Natalie Krysta is a fantastic leader in the music program and the YMCA by putting her own fun spin on the activities she leads. Brendan Hewett draws on the whiteboards of all his classrooms, showcasing his unique art style. (His dance moves at prom were also amazingly creative.)

Finally, last but not least, James Altomonte truly deserves more recognition. He was the first person I thought of when I came across this speech concept. Out of everyone here, he has probably put the most effort into improving our school and class. He puts so much into school, friendships, and the community, that he deserves his own separate space. You’re awesome, James! We should all work to be more like you.

Unfortunately, I couldn’t fit everyone I wanted to mention into this five-minute speech. If I didn’t mention you, please know that I wanted to.

We can remember and learn from the unsung heroes that we meet throughout our lives. Every person is amazing in their own way and has something to teach us. And by the way... You are all awesome!

Class President

Zachary Joseph

I'd like to start by thanking our teachers – who shared their experience and challenged us to think critically– the administration – who created a safe, clean environment for us to learn – and our families and friends – for their encouragement and love.

Thank you.

Today is a special day. I know that all of us have been waiting for this moment – Today, officially, my brother Steven has attended eighteen graduation ceremonies here at BHS. From playing Pomp and Circumstance on his clarinet in 9th Grade to sitting here now. Steven has made it to every single one.

This is only my fifth – for five years I've sat on this field and listened to our upperclassmen and their speeches – which always referenced the Mr. Forbes sitdown in the auditorium, that they “didn't believe high school would fly by. But boy, it sure did.” Each year, I wondered what sort of speech I would give? Here it is.

In everyone we meet, we leave a little piece of ourselves. For better or for worse. We are shaped by the places we live in and the people who surround us. This class has studied and struggled together. Every painful exam. Every last-period Friday. We are all connected by the time we have spent together, in this town, at this school. But whatever this time has meant to you, it's over — and now we must decide what to do with all we have learned. Everything starts now.

From this single origin point we will burst out, reaching into every possible direction. I know that for all of the branching paths the Class of 2022 will take, we will share a part in each others' stories. Because we started this journey together. Because we discovered ourselves, and who we want to be, here. We share common DNA. And though at times this connecting thread cannot be seen, do not forget: that your friends, your family, the world as it is now in your fingers, will be with you, will live through you.

So, together, let's race into the future. Leave blazing footprints in the places we haven't yet been.

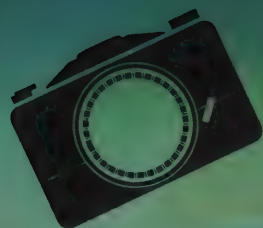

Shape the world in our image and ourselves in those we admire and love.

Years down the line, when we meet back in Bellingham, and we will, because stories have a way of wrapping around to where they started, we'll all have grown and changed and found a place in this world and people to share it with. I can't wait to meet those future-you's, and hear about all the adventures you've gone on. I'll know that a part of us took that journey with you. I'll see you then, and in all the spaces in between. Thank you.

National Honor Society President

Taylor Grenon

Good evening graduates, faculty, and families. I want to start by thanking you all for being here today. Without your support over the years, we would not all be sitting here now, ready to move forward into the next chapter of our lives. As a member and officer of NJHS and NHS, I have worked countless hours with my classmates and have gotten to know them on a more personal level throughout our years at BHS. I know they have the passion and perseverance to pursue their goals and dreams. Steve Jobs once said "You've got to find what you love. If you haven't found it yet, keep looking. Don't settle. As with all matters of the heart, you'll know when you find it." I really feel we have exemplified this statement as a class. Throughout the past few years, I have witnessed us all discover our various passions and devote ourselves to them, and grow immensely as individuals. We have really come together strongly, and created a unified student body. That came from our hard work and dedication, our ability to connect with those around us, especially throughout the last couple of years. I hope you all know your work did not go to waste. It is what brought you here today. I tell you all to extend and reach for the stars, know that nothing is out of your grasp. But, before we begin to reach, remember where you are and who helped to get you here; and don't forget to thank them. I know I wouldn't be standing here if it wasn't for my family, my teachers, and my best friends. I would like to thank everyone before me for making these last 12 years in the Bellingham school community amazing, and for making each day worthwhile; you will be sorely missed as we all move forward from here. Yet I take pride in knowing one day I will hear of your successes and who you become as people. Today we graduate, meaning the home of the Blackhawks is now also the home of tomorrow's lawyers, doctors, teachers, electricians, and military members. We are all capable of accomplishing our goals when we fully commit to them. Everyone tells you to think before you jump, but today I encourage you to jump before you think. Take the job you really want, go to those extra classes, and spend as long as you can with those you love. Live fully in the moment while you can, but most importantly, do whatever makes you happy. Life is a constant journey and today is not a stopping point in our growth, but rather a stepping stone into our future. A reminder that this is just the end of a chapter in our lives, not the end of the whole story, although we can not skip through chapters, like in English class. We need to realize as another day passes so does another page, yet we write them ourselves. You are in control of your future no one will write it but you. With that I want to say wherever we end up and whatever we do, I wish you the best of luck and a final congratulations to the class of 2022!

20 Years Later

Refugees from Afghanistan arrive at Washington Dulles International Airport. Once the U.S. announced withdrawal of its troops following a 20-year war in the Central Asian country, tens of thousands of Afghan residents were evacuated due to concerns over their safety. After the withdrawal, the Taliban once again gained control of the country, prompting international concerns.

Britney's Back

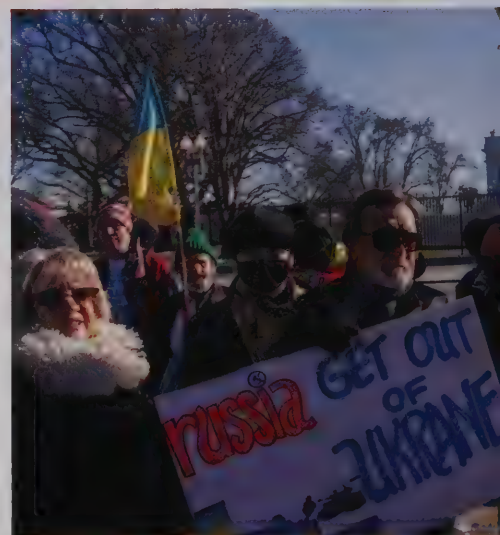

Pop star Britney Spears – seen here at a past appearance with fiancé Sam Asghari – has plenty to celebrate after a court decision ending her conservatorship. The performer had been fighting for years to regain control of her finances and her personal and medical decisions. Supporters held protests over the 13-year conservatorship, and once the Nov. 12 court decision came down, Spears wrote on Instagram, “I love my fans so much it’s crazy.”

Border Tensions

Protestors gather around the world, including these in Washington, D.C., to show solidarity with the people of Ukraine. After months of gathering troops near the border and escalating tensions with NATO allies, Russian forces invaded Ukraine on Feb. 24. It was the largest military attack on European soil since World War II, and global leaders quickly condemned the actions, enacted economic sanctions against Russia, and provided economic and military support to Ukraine.

Emergency Authorization

With emergency authorization from the CDC, kids as young as five years old are able to get the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine against COVID-19. In February, Pfizer asked the FDA to approve the vaccine for children ages six months to five years. California was the first state to add COVID-19 vaccinations to the list of shots required for students.

Celebrating Freedom

Community members in Harlem celebrate the newly recognized federal holiday of Juneteenth. President Joe Biden signed a bill into law that declared June 19 as the 12th federal holiday. Juneteenth recognized the day in 1865 when Union soldiers arrived in Galveston, Texas, officially ending slavery in the state. Photo credit: Newscom

across the metaverse

Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg faces a tumultuous year. Whistleblower and former employee Frances Haugen came forward with tens of thousands of internal documents showing that executives at Facebook and its subsidiaries, Instagram and WhatsApp, were aware of the problems with hate speech, misinformation and negative effects on teens' mental health. Just weeks after Haugen testified before Congress, Zuckerberg announced that Facebook would be changing its corporate name to Meta.

Party Like It's 1999

What's old is new again! Fashion-forward dressers embraced the Y2K style from the late 1990s and early 2000s. The trend returned denim-on-denim ensembles, velour tracksuits, butterfly clips, low-rise jeans and miniskirts to both the catwalks and sidewalks.

Border Crisis

A Haitian migrant braids her daughter's hair at a shelter in Ciudad Acuña, Mexico – just across the Rio Grande from Del Rio, Texas. Thousands of people gathered near the border, seeking asylum in the U.S. due to political turmoil and natural disasters in Haiti. U.S. Special Envoy to Haiti Daniel Foote resigned in protest over the deportation of migrants and handling of the refugee situation. Photo credit: Newscom comedy for the ages

The death of beloved comedian Betty White sends fans into mourning. The actor was known for her roles in "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" and "The Golden Girls." She died just days short of her 100th birthday, after magazines celebrating the milestone had already hit the stands.

A Break in the Chain

Fully loaded container ships wait to unload at the port of Long Beach, California. Merchants and consumers faced a shortage of supplies due to manufacturing disruptions and bottlenecks in the supply chain, including overloaded sea ports, a shortage of truck drivers and backed up railroad terminals. Americans faced many shortages, including automobiles, toys, household goods, computers, gaming systems and even Christmas trees.

Why So Salty?

New recommendations from the Food and Drug Administration could mean a recipe change to your favorite foods. The FDA recommended a 12% reduction in sodium consumption over the next 2.5 years. Because approximately 70% of salt was consumed through packaged, processed, or restaurant foods, much of the reduction guidance was targeted toward food manufacturers, chain restaurants and food service operators.

Climate Change Concern

Demonstrators march through London to protest insufficient action on climate change at the COP26 conference in Glasgow, Scotland. Just weeks before the meeting, the U.K.'s University of Bath released the results from a survey of 10,000 people from 10 different countries who were between the ages of 16 and 25. The survey found that nearly 60% of young people felt "very" or "extremely" worried about climate change, and 77% considered the future to be frightening.

Seeing Space

NASA engineers work to assemble and test the James Webb Space Telescope prior to its December launch. The telescope featured the largest mirror of its kind that NASA had ever built, and the successful launch allowed astronomers to observe more of the universe than ever before. The 21-foot mirror was so large it had to be folded to fit into the rocket that launched it into space and then unfolded once it was in space. Photo credits: NASA/Chris Gunn

Out for Blood

Elizabeth Holmes, founder and former CEO of health technology company Theranos, arrives for a motion hearing in her ongoing court case. The company rose to prominence for its claim to conduct numerous medical tests with only a finger prick of blood, and Holmes brought in millions of dollars from investors. However, she was convicted of fraud after investigations found those claims to be false. Photo credit: Newscom

One of the most popular pups on TikTok has quickly become the new magic eight ball for followers. Noodle served as a sort of daily horoscope with a game his owner, Jonathan Graziano, called "no bones." Graziano would prop up the 13-year-old pug and if Noodle remained standing it was a "bones" day, but if he flopped back down it was a "no bones" day. Bones days were cause for celebration and taking risks, while no-bones days were a time to take it easy and practice self-care.
